Anti-Drugs Awareness Program

Date: June 26, 2024

Venue: Loyola College of Arts and Science, Mettala

Organizers: Loyola College of Arts and Science, Mettala and Ayilpatti Police Department

Loyola College of Arts and Science, Mettala, in collaboration with the Ayilpatti Police Department, organized an Anti-Drugs Awareness Program on June 26, 2024. The event aimed to educate students about the dangers of drug abuse and promote a healthy lifestyle among youth.

The program commenced with opening remarks from Reverend Father Secretary Dannish Ponniah and Principal Dr. Josephine Daisy, emphasizing the importance of such initiatives in educational institutions. Various student organizations, including NSS, actively participated in organizing and attending the event, demonstrating strong student engagement.

The Sub-Inspector of Ayilpatti Police Station delivered a comprehensive awareness session on the consequences of drug abuse and its impact on student culture. Other constables from the police department also contributed to the discussions, providing real-life examples and insights into drug-related issues.

The session concluded with a vote of thanks proposed by Dean of Students, Mr. Saravanan, acknowledging the efforts of all participants and encouraging continued vigilance against drug abuse. Students actively responded to the presentations and discussions, indicating a heightened awareness of the risks associated with drugs by the end of the session.

The Anti-Drugs Awareness Program successfully achieved its objective of educating students about the perils of drug addiction. The collaboration between the educational institution and law enforcement agencies fostered a drug-free campus environment and promoted a healthier future for the youth.

Cleanliness Drive Outside the Campus by NSS Volunteers

Date: July 19, 2024

Venue: Nearby villages

Organizers: NSS Unit of Loyola College of Arts and Science

On July 19, 2024, NSS volunteers from Loyola College of Arts and Science took a significant step towards promoting cleanliness and environmental awareness by conducting a cleanliness drive in the nearby villages. This initiative was aimed at fostering a sense of responsibility among the volunteers and making them aware of the importance of a clean and healthy nation.

The cleanliness drive was organized by the NSS unit, with volunteers actively participating in cleaning public areas, streets, and other locations in need of attention. They also engaged with local residents, spreading awareness about the importance of maintaining cleanliness in their surroundings.

The drive provided the volunteers with a valuable opportunity to understand their responsibility towards the nation. By participating in this activity, they gained firsthand experience of the challenges posed by unclean environments and the positive impact that collective efforts can have in improving public spaces.

This initiative was part of NSS's continuous efforts to promote social responsibility, environmental sustainability, and active citizenship. The volunteers' participation demonstrated their dedication to serving society and contributing to the greater good, highlighting the role of young people in shaping a cleaner nation.

Overall, the cleanliness drive was a great success, instilling in the volunteers a renewed sense of pride in their contribution to society and an enhanced understanding of the importance of maintaining cleanliness for the well-being of the community and the nation.

Date: November 21, 2024

Venue: Ayilpatti

Organizers: Loyola College of Arts and Science, Dr. Sudhakar ENT Hospital, Lawrence & Mayo

On November 21, 2024, Loyola College of Arts and Science, in collaboration with Dr. Sudhakar ENT Hospital and Lawrence & Mayo, conducted a health camp in Ayilpatti, aimed at providing medical services to the rural community. The event was organized by the National Service Scheme (NSS) unit of the college.

The camp was inaugurated by the esteemed Secretary and Principal of Loyola College of Arts and Science, who emphasized the importance of health awareness and the college's commitment to serving society.

The health camp offered free medical check-ups, consultations, and various health services. Dr. Sudhakar ENT Hospital provided specialized ENT services, while Lawrence & Mayo offered free eye check-ups and vision screening. The camp catered to hundreds of people from the local community, many of whom benefitted greatly from the services provided. Various health conditions were identified and treated, and many individuals were referred for further treatment at the respective hospitals.

The initiative proved to be highly successful, providing much-needed medical attention to underserved rural populations and raising awareness about general health and hygiene practices. The collaboration between the college, Dr. Sudhakar ENT Hospital, and Lawrence & Mayo played a key role in the smooth execution of the camp, which served as a powerful example of community-driven healthcare initiatives.

Overall, the camp was a success, making a positive impact on the lives of those who attended and demonstrating the NSS unit's commitment to social service and community welfare.

These initiatives reflect the commitment of Loyola College of Arts and Science, Mettala, to not only the academic development of its students but also their holistic growth, social responsibility, and contributions to community welfare.
