The Jesuits have effectively and efficiently applied the tool of education to empower the marginalized and the neglected to gain leadership in society.

Vision of Jesuit higher education

The Society of Jesus proclaims that “the service of faith through the promotion of justice” is the mission that must be integrated as a priority into each Jesuit work. Our purpose in education is to form men and women “for others”.

- ★ Inspired by the maxim of Jesuit Education, MAGIS (ever more/ greater), the Jesuits mould students to excel with foresight, far-sight and insight.
- ★ The Society of Jesus has always sought to imbue students with values that transcend the goals of money, fame and success.
- ★ It wants graduates who will be leaders, concerned about society.
- ★ It wants graduates who will desire to eliminate hunger and conflict in the world and who will be sensitive to the needs of the poor.
- ★ It wants graduates who will seek to end gender and social discrimination and who will be eager to share their faith with others.
- ★ Ultimately, it wants the graduates to become leaders in-service. That has been the goal of Jesuit education since the sixteenth century. It remains so today.
- ★ Jesuit pedagogy looks at education differently, not merely in terms of quantity of knowledge, but in terms of quality of wisdom that helps form the character of students by providing intellectual information and foundational training so that they become leaders with social responsibility.

The Jesuit institutions challenge the students to reflect upon the value implications & consequences of what they study. Thus, the vision of education is to enable the human person and the human community to be the loved ones God calls them to be and everything is “Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam- (AMDG)”- for the Greater Glory of God.
